Specification

The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 1-9 and 13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The intended scope of the claims is unclear because they intermix article, method and combination limitations. For example, according to the preamble of claim 1, applicant intends to claim a "blind rivet" but in the body of that claim, there is the method limitation of the indentations being crimped after it is positioned around the mandrel. Furthermore, in the subsequent claims, the preamble begins "The combination" and claims 13-15 are directed solely to the combination. For examination purposes, the claims were considered as being directed to the article, or rivet, based upon the pre-amble of claim 1 and examined as best understood.

Applicant is reminded that if the method or combination are intended to be claimed they must also be shown in the figures.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gossmann.

Gossmann discloses a rivet comprising a mandrel (3) having a frangible portion (6) and a shell (2) having a flange (10) with a first (12) and second (11) sets of indentations along the shell spaced from the flange.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-9 and 13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gossmann as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Lacey. Lacey teaches a rivet including a third indentation. At the time the invention was made, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to provide Gossmann with a third set of indentations as taught in Lacey in order to better control the deformation characteristics of the rivet for overall superior performance. The specific dimensions would have been recognized depending upon the particular use of the rivet. Also, the rivet of modified Gossmann would be capable of use in combination with the workpiece components as claimed.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
